

Special facilities provided for women

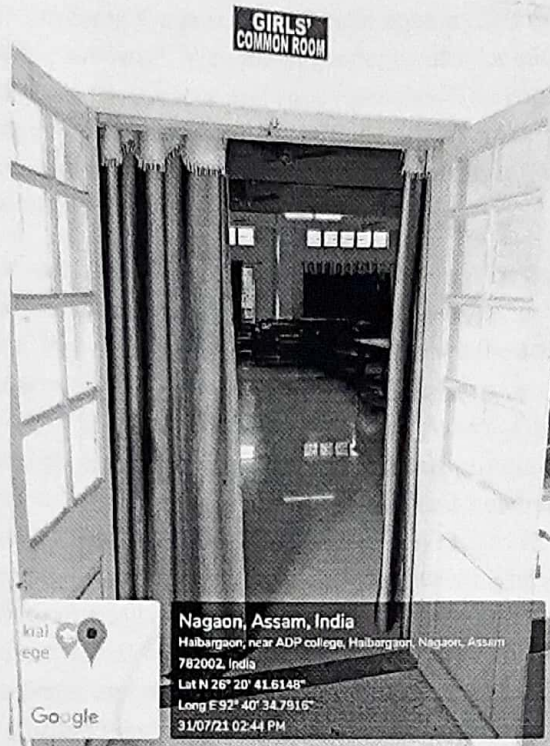

Anandaram Dhekial Phookan College, Nagaon, Assam

Anandaram Dhekial Phookan College has provided special facilities for women. There are several cells working for safety and security of girl students. The college has Anti-Ragging Committee, Women Study Centre, Student Grievance Redress Cell and Gender Sensitization Committee against Sexual Harassment. These committees basically aim at fostering healthy interpersonal relations among students and solve issues related to girl students and provide them justice and counseling when required. Apart from this the institution has installed CCTV cameras inside the campus and in all the class-rooms to keep watch on the activities of the students. The students are provided with a large common room where they can gather to interact and indulge in various activities along with good hygienic sanitization facilities. A sanitary vending machine has been installed in the Girls Common Room taking in care of the safety of the girls of the college. It is a step towards empowerment of girls and more enrolments of girls in the college. There is also hostel facility for the girls where they are provided with adequate high security and discipline.

plan of our college is our roadmap for promoting gender equality in everything we do including academic and non-academic activities. We embed gender results for education, equality at work place, protection for girl students, hygiene and social policies. The premier institution has been emphasizing on gender equality from the very outset and initiated measures from time to time for protection and promotion of the issue. During the period of last five years (2016-2021) several collective measures have been initiated on that aspect.

On November 3, 2016 a meeting of gender sensitization committee against sexual harassment was held. The members present discussed the activities of the gender sensitization committee against sexual harassment. The convener of the meeting described the activities of the committee. The student participants also took part in the discussion. They expressed satisfaction that there was no discrimination in ADP College and for that matter in Assam. On 19th November 2019, a state level seminar on women empowerment and present status in Asia was organized by IQAC and women study centre, ADP College, where more than one hundred participants, both the students and teaching faculty took part. Here the resource person, Dr. Surajit Kumar Bhagowati, the principal of the college delivered his lecture comprehensively highlighting the gender issues, on its historical perspective covering eleven communities of south-east Asia. The resource person explained and examined the social system in the context of women status, in south-east Asia during the pre colonial, colonial and modern period. In July 2020, a National Webinar on Gender: Beginnings and studies: Current trends were organized by the college. A Webinar was organized on IT and Women Empowerment on July 2020. In March 2021, a lecture programme was hosted on Women, Film and Literature. An Assamese reading programme on Women and Creativity: ASMITA was conducted on 14th March 2021 and 05 numbers of dignitaries were invited as chief guests in the programme.
